This course has as its object the rapid adaptation of the civilian practitioner to the life, work and customs of the Army. The instruction is progressive and extends from the school of the recruit to the organization, functions, and administration of all Medical Department units attached to the field forces or in home territory, in peace or war, such as regimental detachments, medical regiments, evacuation hospitals, surgical hospitals, hospital trains, general hospitals, and station hospitals. The course is also designed to prepare him for the discharge of his military duties upon entry into the service, irrespective of whether his assignment be with mobile or fixed formations. (2) An advanced course, to be conducted from May 1st to July 15th, for officers whose war or field experience indicates their fitness for field instruction. This course will deal mainly with the organization, function, and administration of all field units of the Medical Department. It is designed chiefly to develop commanding officers of special units and such administrative officers as army surgeons, arm corps surgeons, and division surgeons. It falls under the general heading of what may be termed sanitary tactics. (3) A special course, of from 1 month to 6 weeks duration, to be conducted at any time during the year excepting the months of June, July, and August, for such officers of the National Guard or Organized Reserves who cannot spare the time to take the full basic course mentioned in (1)...
